Maps this year were important. Daily we watched changes in the boundary lines within Europe. Then came December 7, when Pearl Harbor was attacked by Japan. Since then we have had a part in the map changing of the world.

So, also, we have seen changes in the purposes and the paths which lie open before us in Kankakee High School. So, also, we have had a part in making these changes.

Highways to strength

First aid classes are helpful. . . . Physical education builds bodies and minds. . . . Swimming is healthy physical exertion. . . . Football combines brains with brawn. . . . Basketball requires speed and accuracy. . . . Track meets on the cinder path. . . . "K" Club is lettermen's retreat. . . . Pep Club supports teams. . . . Students need relaxation.

Byways to citizenship

Annual records another year's activities. . . . Keynote builds for morale. . . . Girl Reserves stress service. . . . Assembly programs are educational. . . . Student Council provides student leadership. . . . Hi-Y and Tri-K govern city for a day. . . . Student actors get stage experience. . . . Seniors present play. . . . Chorus gives concert. . . . Students develop musical interests.

to meet supervisors

Seated behind a broad desk in a simple office, Mr. Irving Munson, superintendent of city schools, works with a telephone in one hand and a pencil in the other, while an information-seeker awaits his attention.

Co-operating in war activities—sugar rationing, Red Cross, salvage campaigns, draft registrations, and government sponsored defense courses—has added many duties to his regular schedule.

Still, Mr. Munson has found time to give down-to-earth and interesting talks to the students and to interpret educational purposes to the community.

The superintendent makes it a point to know the students as individuals, and all in the Kankakee schools enjoy his cheerful company.

ABOVE: Superintendent Munson has an A. B. from Augustana College and an A. M. from the University of Illinois.

Hundreds daily enter the bright, cheery office of Mr. R. Y. Allison, principal of Kankakee High School. Students come to him for aid in arranging schedules, for advice concerning advanced education, and for references to help them obtain positions.

A keen discernment of the needs and desires of high school students enables Mr. Allison to talk to and with students in an effective and understanding fashion.

The principal attends with interest sports activities and other school affairs; he is attentive to the plans put forth by club committees and helpful in promoting their projects. In these and other ways students get to know Mr. Allison as a friend.

ABOVE: Mr. Allison helps George Pyles plan his course. Bill Kammann, Keith Stuart, Theodore Hawkins and Doris Anderson are about to enter the office after having been called from study hall.

Principal Allison has an A. B. from Wabash College and an A. M. from the University of Chicago.

who encourage us to make our individual decisions

Kankakee High School interprets guidance as helping each student find his own abilities and interests; helping him obtain a sound general education and helping him become sociable. And guidance means guiding, not forcing.

Believing that each person ought to be treated as an individual, the school offers vocational tests, reference books and weekly magazines for one purpose: to enable each student to find himself.

The base of success is education, upon which specialization is built. For balance, a triangle must have a broad, sound foundation, and so it is with specialization.

But education, even specialization, isn't enough. Training in how to associate successfully with others is equal to the importance of learning a trade. Creative living, not taught in any textbook, is one of the prime factors in Kankakee's varied extra-curriculum.

There's no number above the door, but every student knows the interior of the room and its friendly, dynamic occupant, Miss Helen A. Shuman. For Miss Shuman is a guiding force in the school life of the boys as well as of the girls.

Being sponsor of Student Council, English teacher, chairman of the Junior Red Cross at K. H. S. and Dean of Girls are merely safety valves for her remarkable working capacity, plentiful sense of humor and competent executive ability.

Miss Shuman's sound advice, strengthened by the influence of her friendly personality, has helped many students over the "tough spots" in school of life.

After taking aptitude tests, students need an experienced person to explain and discuss the results with them. Above, Miss Shuman is helping Lloyd Borah, junior; Eugene Hudson, senior; Jean Nelson, junior; and James Damron, senior.

Miss Shuman has a B.Ed. from Illinois State Normal University and an A.M. from the University of Illinois.

TOP, Left: Friendly Mrs. Ruth Henschel found much to do while assisting in the offices. An understanding person is Miss Jessie Greely, who has taken on more responsibilities since war projects have started.

THIRD ROW—William Azbell, B.Ed., M.S., Science; Shirley Jeffers, B.S., Social Science; Dorothy McGinnis, A.B., Social Science; Martha Montgomery, B.S., Mathematics. LOWER ROW—Ruth Cole, B.S., M.S., General Science; Fowler McKinley, M.S., B.Ed., Manual Training; Grace Coulter, B.S., Clothing; Lila Roat, B.S., English.

TOP: Ruth Beauvais, B.Ed., Commerce; George Piersol, B.M., Band.
LOWER: Olga Dykstra, B.S., Social Science; Vera Baker, B.Ed., Commerce.

As co-chairman of the assembly committee this year, Miss Gernon deserves much credit for the outstanding special programs. The American literature and public speaking classes of Miss Tull give a fine background for good citizenship. On the athletic field and in his classroom, Mr. Dykstra distributes a wealth of information. Lt. Smith left his classes in the spring to spend a month at Fort Riley, Kansas.

By Miss Inkster's direction of thought, a new light has been thrown upon the subject of English. Movies and written outlines are used by Miss Webb to clarify lessons in biology. Miss Beardslee has for a basis of her love for culture, the subject she teaches, Latin. Miss Moffett's cool voice seems a part of Room 212 as she reads a translation for a student who is completely stumped.

Mr. Azbell has brought new methods to science classes since his addition to the faculty last September. Under the skillful teaching of Miss Jeffers, students learn that roads of the future are built upon experiences of the past.

Miss McGinnis digs into the details of today's events for her classes, and her methods make history vital. Miss Montgomery really enjoys having Girl Reserves around for cabinet meetings and informal discussions.

A measured voice and an even temper contribute to Miss Cole's effectiveness as a senior sponsor. Mr. McKinley knows that working with wood and machinery gives a boy a sense of fulfillment. Serving as a member of the county salvaging committee is one of Miss Coulter's war activities. Mrs. Roat, who has won the interest and co-operation of all her students, has capably substituted for Miss Wehmhoff, on leave of absence this year.

An active part in the buying and selling of defense stamps has been assumed by Miss Beauvais. Jovial, fun-loving, leader of the band—Mr. Piersol takes ups and downs in his stride. Mrs. Dykstra was an excellent substitute for Mr. Smith in his absence. Miss Baker's sweet smile makes her a friend to all, and her manners and dress are a shining example to girls.

TOP: Charles Harrison, B.S., Physical Education; Pearl Scaggs, A.B., A.M., General Science. LOWER: Ruth Northrup, B.S., A.M., Social Science; Earl Jones, B.Ed., Athletics, General Shop.

Boys were regretful when Mr. Harrison announced he would retire after fifteen years of coaching here. Amicable Miss Scaggs took part in the sponsorship of the senior class and of the Byrd Science Club. Miss Northrup, newest addition to the faculty, has become well acquainted with her students. Mr. Jones' position as assistant coach has made him an idol to many boys interested in sports.

Reports from former students keep Mrs. Jannsen convinced of the importance of advanced mathematics. Foreign lands interest Miss Martin, who, for a hobby, gives illustrated lectures to organizations. When Mrs. Dapron received a leave of absence this spring, Miss Brown supervised her classes. Miss Keefe is quick to recognize and encourage initiative in students. The geography of the world, during the time of war, is hard to teach, but Miss Larson manages to keep up with events.

In the spotless surroundings of Room 111, girls, under the direction of Miss Stone, learn about calories and vitamins. Mr. Canham, well known for his numerous stories, was called away to active army service. Fingers are poised over the typewriter keys as Miss Reynolds prepares students for a time test. Mr. Lambert encourages boys to plan ahead for jobs and vocational training. Mr. Weller works hard among his tubes and chemicals to make chemists of his students.

Neatness and preparedness are the "must" habits for all of Miss Carmody's classes. Under Miss Waggoner's instructions, prize winning themes are still being written. Mastery of nouns, verbs and clauses seems easy when Miss Freyermuth begins the explanation. Assemblies, state exhibits, prom committees—these give Miss Ingli a school interest outside her classes.

All of her pupils will agree that Miss Kranz makes rulers, women of history and dates easy to remember. Both gay and thoughtful music was featured this year by Miss Fager, new instructor. Miss Freitag, traveler and author, has a big job in teaching prospective young business men and women. Instructor of Red Cross First Aid classes, Miss Nichols represents a true lover of sports. Miss Skidmore, who has charge of rows and rows of books, is interested in all school activities.

TOP ROW—Carrie Jannsen, B.S., Mathematics; Lula Martin, B.S., Mathematics; Hattie Bell Dapron, B.Ed., Art, Mechanical Drawing; Kathryn Keefe, A.B., A.M., Journalism, English; Sara Larson, A.B., B.Ed., M.S., Business, Geography. SECOND ROW—Alice Stone, B.S., M.S., Foods; Donald Canham, B.S., Social Science, Physical Education; Margaret Reynolds, B.Ed., Commerce; Euclid Lambert, Manual Training; Frank Weller, B.Ed., M.S., Science.

THIRD ROW—Edith Carmody, B.Ed., Commerce; Marion Waggoner, A.B., A.M., English; Lillian Freyermuth, A.B., A.M., English; Gwendolen Ingli, A.B., A.M., Mathematics. LOWER ROW—Marion Kranz, Ph.B., Social Science; Mildred Fager, B.S.M., M.M., Music; Elsie Freitag, B.Ed., Commerce; Anne Nichols, A.B., A.M., Physical Education; Lottie Skidmore, A.B., B.S. in L.S., Librarian.

by the way,

To the memory of Marie Baker, we dedicate this page. Marie, a senior, died on November 23, following an automobile accident. Better known as "Peggy," she had been outstanding in her class for her fine character, charm, and ability.

Marie was truly a typical American, one with courage, determination, and an unselfishness that expressed itself in helpfulness to those about her.

In the course of her journey through life, she met many people; some became her staunch friends, and they will remember her long for the fine, sweet girl she was.

seniors pause at the crossroads,

When the class of '42 entered K. H. S. as freshmen, they chose Rex Dusenbury, Bonnie Rogers, and Betty LaBeau as officers; this same class is now leaving as young men and women ready to face life's responsibilities.

Under the sophomore leadership of Elmore Clawson, Rex Dusenbury, and Mildred Johnson, a St. Patrick's day assembly was staged.

"A Voice In the Dark," was the junior play chosen and the prom had a Mexican theme. This year Orville Busse, Joseph LaRocque, and Verna Davis were elected as officers.

With Miss Baker, Miss Cole, Miss Scaggs, and Mr. Weller as sponsors, the seniors elected Joe LaRocque, Richard Thurston and Adrain Faford as officers. Frances Baker and James Johnston received the D. A. R. awards. Senior day was April 24, and "Gabriel Blow Your Horn" was presented April 29.

This year's juniors—next year's seniors, when glancing over the past year will find it is the best of their high school life. For they are now far enough advanced on the road of learning to have some prestige among the student body, but are gayer than the career-planning seniors.

With George Morrow, Ronald Rieken, and Bob Wolf as class officers, the juniors established successful records. Their first project, when becoming upperclassmen, was to present a class play, "Young April." Those who took part in the play and those who were on committees worked together to make a successful performance.

Because of the war, the school took on added activities; and, in the paper salvaging and stamp buying drives, the juniors were continual leaders.

The really big undertaking of the class was the presentation of the annual prom. In order to aid in the preserving of materials needed by the government, the juniors made the materials of previous proms suffice and worked hard to have a memorable party with minimum expense.

Heading the committees for the prom were Ronald Rieken, decorations; Bernice Nelson, throne; Bob Wolf, music; Barbara Korstick, food; and Betty Baird, program.

The theme of the gala affair was centered in a colorful and patriotic garden with bright red, white and blue flowers.

With Miss Stone, Miss Beauvais, Miss Ingli, Miss Freyermuth and Mr. Azbell as their sponsors, the class discussed many interesting subjects and ideas in homerooms and filled in vocational preference records. These tests helped them to decide for what vocations their preferences fitted them.

underclasses—

Sophomores, high in scholarship, athletics, and leadership, gave interesting programs and published a class paper.

Officers are President Harry Streeter, Vice-President James Morris, and Secretary-Treasurer Mary Joan Stentz.

The freshman class, known around school as about the most progressive group in the building, already has won the respect and admiration of their friends and teachers.

Practical subjects, with classroom discussion and actual experience in working out problems, are helping us to prepare ourselves to be of greater service to our community and to our nation.

In sciences and mathematics, we are diligently gaining and storing knowledge which we may soon be able to contribute to our country. Algebra, geometry and trigonometry, as well as the sciences, play a very important part in our armed forces and in the vast factories that back them up. Aiming big guns, calculating distances, compounding explosives, and designing weapons—all use mathematics or science.

Classroom discussions are helping us to think more clearly and intelligently. This will be a great asset when the time comes for us to vote. Peace may not come until that time so we must be able to choose wisely our officials, because some of them will undoubtedly help to make the peace.

Thus, today's studies, no matter how world events may turn, will help to make us better citizens.

preparing us for war jobs,

To enable boys to gain valuable training along practical lines, several new shop courses were introduced into the school curriculum and a new shop room was equipped in the Central School Building in which to teach these courses.

One of these new courses, general shop, taught by Mr. Earl Jones, consists of three branches—sheet metal, woodwork, and electricity. Each branch is taken for a period of twelve weeks unless a boy has had previous woodwork. In this case, electricity and sheet metal are each taken one semester.

Another new course was machine and architectural drawing, which was taught at Departmental School by Mr. Euclid Lambert.

In Mr. Jones' manual training class, you may see boys working on boats, desks, tables, footstools, and what have you. This class is composed of boys who are interested in advanced woodwork.

Mr. Fowler McKinley has about sixty boys in three manual training classes a day. One class is advanced woodwork and the other two are beginning courses. These boys are instructed in the construction and assembly of wood projects such as tables, desks, cabinets, shelves and chests.

There were also special night classes sponsored and paid for by the federal government in the endeavor to help train men for useful jobs in the war industries. These courses were held several nights each week and were open to high school graduates and to persons especially interested in these lines.

Mr. Lambert taught an evening class in machine and architectural drawing and Mr. McKinley instructed another group in blue-print reading. Mr. Weller had an advanced chemistry class; Miss Freitag and Miss Smith, cost accounting classes.

On the third Thursday of every month, North Study is packed to the brim with active freshmen, as the Byrd Science Club is called together by President Peggy Cushing and her fellow officers, Vice-President Paul Disney, Treasurer Jim Brown, and Secretary Pat Hill. The well-chosen sponsors are Miss Pearl Scaggs and Miss Ruth Cole.

Byrd Science Club is the largest freshman organization in school, with a total of one hundred active members, who attend regularly, meetings featuring pictures on such subjects as the Philippines, ship building, and Admiral Byrd.

Among their other activities was a trip to Chicago. Four busloads of students went to Field Museum, the Planetarium, the Aquarium, and the NBC Broadcasting Studio.

Perhaps the most outstanding thing the club did was to contribute thirty dollars toward buying black shades for the windows of North Study.

investigating the possibilities of science,

If your proboscis informs you of queer odors in the vicinity of Room 306, come in and make yourself at home. This is the home of the Edisonian Science Club, organized for students who wish to learn more about the role of science today.

The club attempts to give a broader conception of science through book reviews, quiz programs and field trips to museums, radio stations, a planetarium, meat packing plants, electrical shows and lighting exhibits.

Entertainment includes a picnic, movies and much dabbling around in the laboratories.

Leaders of this year's club were Bill Pelletier, president; John Carruthers, vice-president; Mary Alice Hixson, secretary-treasurer; and Robert Van Voorst, sergeant at arms. Mr. William Azbell was sponsor.

It doesn't take us very long to figure out when we approach the Commercial section of school. The sharp click of the typewriters and the girls with their shorthand pads tucked under their arms assure us that the Commercial rooms are in the north end of the building.

Not only are the regular typing, shorthand and bookkeeping classes taught, but also supplementary courses are offered.

Commercial geography, the study of the United States' trade relations with other countries; Office Practice, which gives its members actual office work in downtown offices; and Business Economics, the practical application of consumer's problems, are the subjects offered.

backgrounding world conditions,

The first Wednesday of every month was the set meeting day, but just where the Commercial Club members would meet was the problem; they usually wound up in a study hall.

Dorothy Meehling, president, called the meetings to order and they were usually very well attended, because Commercial Club has one of the largest memberships of all the clubs in the school.

Rosemary Coe and Elaine Gustavson, vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, assisted Dorothy with her duties as prexy. Miss Edith Carmody and Miss Margaret Reynolds sponsored the club the first semester, and Miss Elsie Freitag and Miss Doris Smith sponsored it the second semester.

The club did some very constructive work this year along the employment lines. Mr. Arthur Wunderlich, head of the Kankakee branch of the Illinois Employment Service, and Mr. Edward Strasma, of the Kankakee Credit Bureau, spoke to the club about the methods of obtaining jobs, the qualities employers expect and the procedures in getting a good credit rating. Jobs of all sorts, including those in Government Civil Service, were discussed at the meetings.

Of course, the club had fun, too, during the year.

This is a picture of a girl trying to figure out just what is going on in the world. It's Dorothy Christensen looking very perturbed over the map of Africa. But she's not the only one, because it's been pretty hard in the past three years for the students in Commercial geography to keep up with this subject.

detouring for language enjoyment in French

As the French students approach Room 203, they sense that ever friendly atmosphere. Usually there is a group of enthusiastic French students clustered about Miss Gernon's desk. They're discussing either their French lesson for the day or the coming French Club meeting.

The enjoyment in taking French comes in joining the French Club. The meetings of this group take place in the cafeteria in a very informal gathering on the last Thursday of each month. The only requirements for membership are to have passed successfully one semester of French and to know the French Anthem, "La Marseillaise."

Club activities are pleasant. There is always one day in the second semester when one can distinguish new members. Usually clad in odd accessories, initiates even wear clothespins in their tresses. One of the most important events in the school year is the French Club's annual Christmas tea dance.

French Club does its share in contributing interest to high school life as the early French settlers had their part in developing Kankakee and the surrounding communities. There are hundreds of students here who bear French names or are of French descent. For many of these, the study of French means more than meeting the language requirement of their curriculum.

The officers of the organization are Mona Ray Mann, president; Margaret Coghlan, vice-president; and Don Huckins, secretary.

Sponsoring all the lively meetings and parties and always acting as a wise and understanding adviser is Mademoiselle Rosetta Gernon.

and for traditional cultural values in Latin;

Bang! The gavel of the president calls the Latin Club to order in the cafeteria the second Wednesday of every month. This club, sponsored by Miss Marie Beardslee and Miss Avis Moffett, was formed in 1929 and is one of the oldest clubs in school. It represents a subject that dates back further than most.

This year the members of "Societas Latina" modernized some old-fashioned games at their meetings and held a box social instead of a picnic. The annual tea dance was given in January.

The president this year, Frank Reuter, seems to be carrying on a family tradition, for in 1934 one of his cousins was president and in 1935 another cousin was secretary. The offices of vice-president and secretary were held by Jeanne Marie Poley and Mary Joan Stentz, respectively.

The steady enrollment in the Latin department shows that the interest in Latin as a foundation for the study of English and other languages is not declining.

In a far corner on the third floor is one of the brightest rooms in Kankakee High School—Room 301, where art classes are held. The walls lined with gay pictures that the students have painted, this room furnishes one attractive setting for the art students. Not the only one, however, for these skillful students are often found outside, on pleasant days, painting landscapes.

Other projects in the course are drawing monograms, cartooning, and making advertising posters. This last activity is important to clubs and classes which wish to advertise activities and find the art class a logical place to go for assistance. As a result, attractive placards are always on display on the windows to remind the school of coming events.

Thirty-five students are enrolled in the mechanical drawing classes, which meet in the morning. Twenty are studying art in the afternoon. Students registered in either course may prepare themselves to fill present government positions for skilled workers.

Members of art classes enter two contests annually—the American Legion Poster contest and a national soap sculpture competition.

Sixteen of the artists belong to the Art Club, an active organization which held Christmas, Valentine's Day and St. Patrick's Day parties.

Officers of the club are Ruth Hoerz, president; Margaret Henrichs, vice-president; Frieda Reitmeyer, secretary; and Joseph Darter, treasurer.

As a girl walks into Room 317 to attend Home Economics Club meeting, she is given a blue booklet with the national emblem upon it. The theme for the year was "Lessons in Loveliness."

Each semester the girls in clothing class, directed by Miss Grace Coulter, modeled their dresses in front of their classmates. Many learned to knit and had the privilege of applying their knowledge by knitting for the boys in service. To obtain yarn, the girls made and sold candy.

In cooking classes, the girls and one boy prepared dishes and served their classmates under the direction of Miss Alice Stone. Stress this year was placed on the careful buying of foods most necessary for health.

follow our desires for sturdy health;

"Shoot, shoot, Wilma!"

"Guard her, guard her, Pat!"

These familiar shouts come from our spacious sunny gym at the southeast corner of the school. By participating in team games and individual sports, girls in gym classes daily learn the importance of physical fitness and the value of good sportsmanship.

To create an active interest in sports and to provide recreation are the aims of the Girls' Athletic Association. At their annual election the girls chose Doreen Larrigan, president; Mona Ray Mann, vice-president; Marilyn Palenske, secretary; and Constance Goudreau, treasurer.

The following sports managers and their assistants ably carried out their duties: basketball—Juanita Schierholz, Dolores Dolan; badminton—Mary Ruth Lehmann; swimming—Bernice Nyhuis, Euphemia Wegner; volleyball—Rebecca Fisher, Dolores Palmer; archery—Lorayne Raguse, Clara Hendricks; tumbling—Connie Goudreau, Joanne Davis; and noon hour activities—Lenora Kidd, Carol Stewart.

In the well-rounded physical education program, students learn to be of service to others. Miss Anne Nichols now teaches a class in Standard First Aid for juniors and seniors, as well as the Junior First Aid course for freshmen.

"Health for Victory" was a theme of Posture Week, sponsored by G. A. A. In an assembly the girls demonstrated their athletic ability.

Social values are important in a sports program. The girls had a full schedule of recreational activities including a wiener roast at Cooper's Woods, playdays here and at Chicago Heights, a Christmas party, several play nights, and a spring banquet.

New this year were the popular play nights at which boys and girls played together in the gym and in the pool.

These girls won awards: G. A. A. monogram—Barney, Barsalou, Bauer, Cahan, Callahan, B. Dato, Genz, Harris, Hayes, M. Henrichs, Howe, Johnson, B. Kegley, Love, Milon, Muehler, White, Wulff, Zaring, Borkowski, Davis, Grubb, and St. Peter.

Along with teaching beginning and advanced swimming, Miss Nichols conducts a Junior and Senior Life Saving course. This class of twenty students was held the seventh period Tuesdays and Thursdays. The girls receiving Junior Life Saving certificates were E. Muehler, M. Worth, J. Swaim, L. Wilson, M. Wolf, M. Zaring, and I. Zullo. M. R. Mann was the only girl to receive a Senior Life Saving emblem.

Heine, English, Dusenbury stop a foe in the Bloom game.

On to the gridiron of Alumni Field rushed thirty Kay hopefuls last fall. This group proved to be one of the most loyal and hard-working of squads, though they came through the season with only losing and tie scores.

Two new coaches had been added to the staff—Earl Jones, assistant heavyweight coach, and Don Canham, assistant freshman and grade school coach. Coach Eugene Dykstra took over the head coaching position as Coach Charles Harrison cut down on his responsibilities in athletics, preparatory to retiring.

The squad of heavyweights worked hard for their various positions, and a light but fast team was formed. The boys came out for practice every night at 3:17. None missed more than two days of practice except those who were injured. In spite of their losing streak, these lads never gave up. They faced every game with renewed spirit and determination.

Their season started against Momence, a team known for its passing attack; the score was tied, 6-6. The second encounter was with a strong Danville team, which came out ahead, 25-0.

Calumet City crushed the Dykstramen, 34-0. Undaunted, the Kankakee boys tackled their next foe, Bloom, with such spirit that this game proved to be their best, defensively and offensively, though they lost, 21-0.

Another powerful team was Argo, which succeeded in subduing the Kays, 32-6. Dusenbury made the only Kankakee touchdown. The Harvey team, taking revenge on the Kays for their two previous beatings, swamped the Maroons, 25-0.

The Kays next advanced against Blue Island, dropping this game, 20-7; Szozda scored the touchdown and extra point. Still showing improvement, Kankakee lost its last chance for victory when Ottawa hung up a 26-0 score in the final game.

	Dandelles	Dusenbury	Cahan

Coach Dykstra's big problem was a lack of experienced players. Most outstanding of his six returning lettermen was Captain Heine, later chosen first string center in the South Suburban and given honorable mention on Pat Harmon's all-state eleven.

Carpenter, in his first varsity season, showed ability at left end. Wheeler played well at left tackle next to Wilson, a hard-blocking guard. Jackson and Schierholz alternated capably at right guard.

Right tackle, Leavitt, and right end, Henderson, both experienced, took care of their end of the line commendably. The Kays' hard-hitting quarterback was small but mighty Betts. English, starting at tackle, changed to fullback and shared duties with Busse and Szozda.

Dusenbury, dependable letterman, and Dandelles, a speedy back, held down right half, while Piatt and Condon turned in good performances at left.

Other boys who contributed much to the team and also received letters were Cahan, Carrigan, and A. Brown. Managers' awards went to L. Brown, Tyson, and Hanshaw.

This year the freshman-sophomore team was drilled in fundamentals by Coach Charlie Harrison, assisted by Coach Don Canham. Because of the good spirit of the team and their will to win for "Uncle Charlie," the boys came out with a fairly successful season, winning three games, losing four and tying one.

The little Kay team started the season by tackling St. Anne and being taken for a 6-0 loss. In a hard-fought game with a big Momence eleven, they struggled to a scoreless deadlock. Next the youngsters met defeat from Calumet City, 7-0, and from Bloom, 12-0.

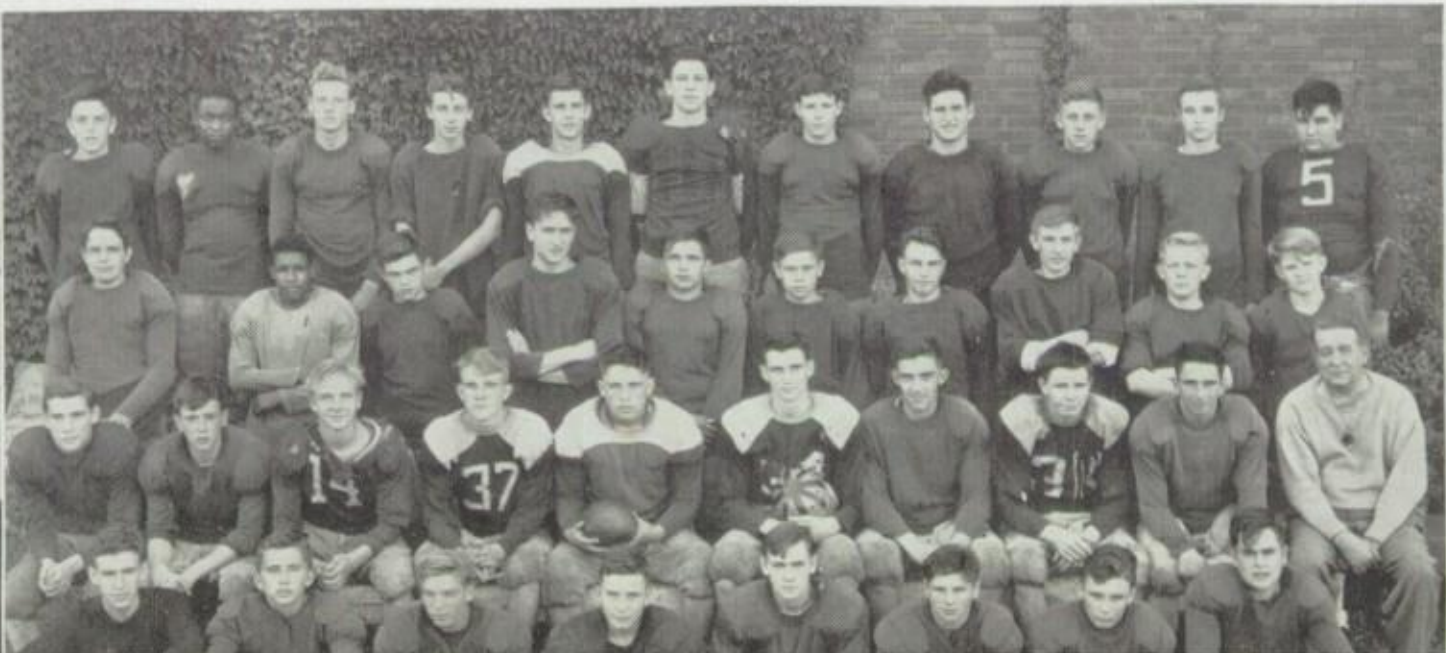

In other hotly-contested battles, the Kays handed Argo a 7-0 beating, but fell before Thornton, 12-0. The season closed with victories, as the Kankakee boys downed Blue Island, 13-0, and dealt Manteno a 6-0 loss.

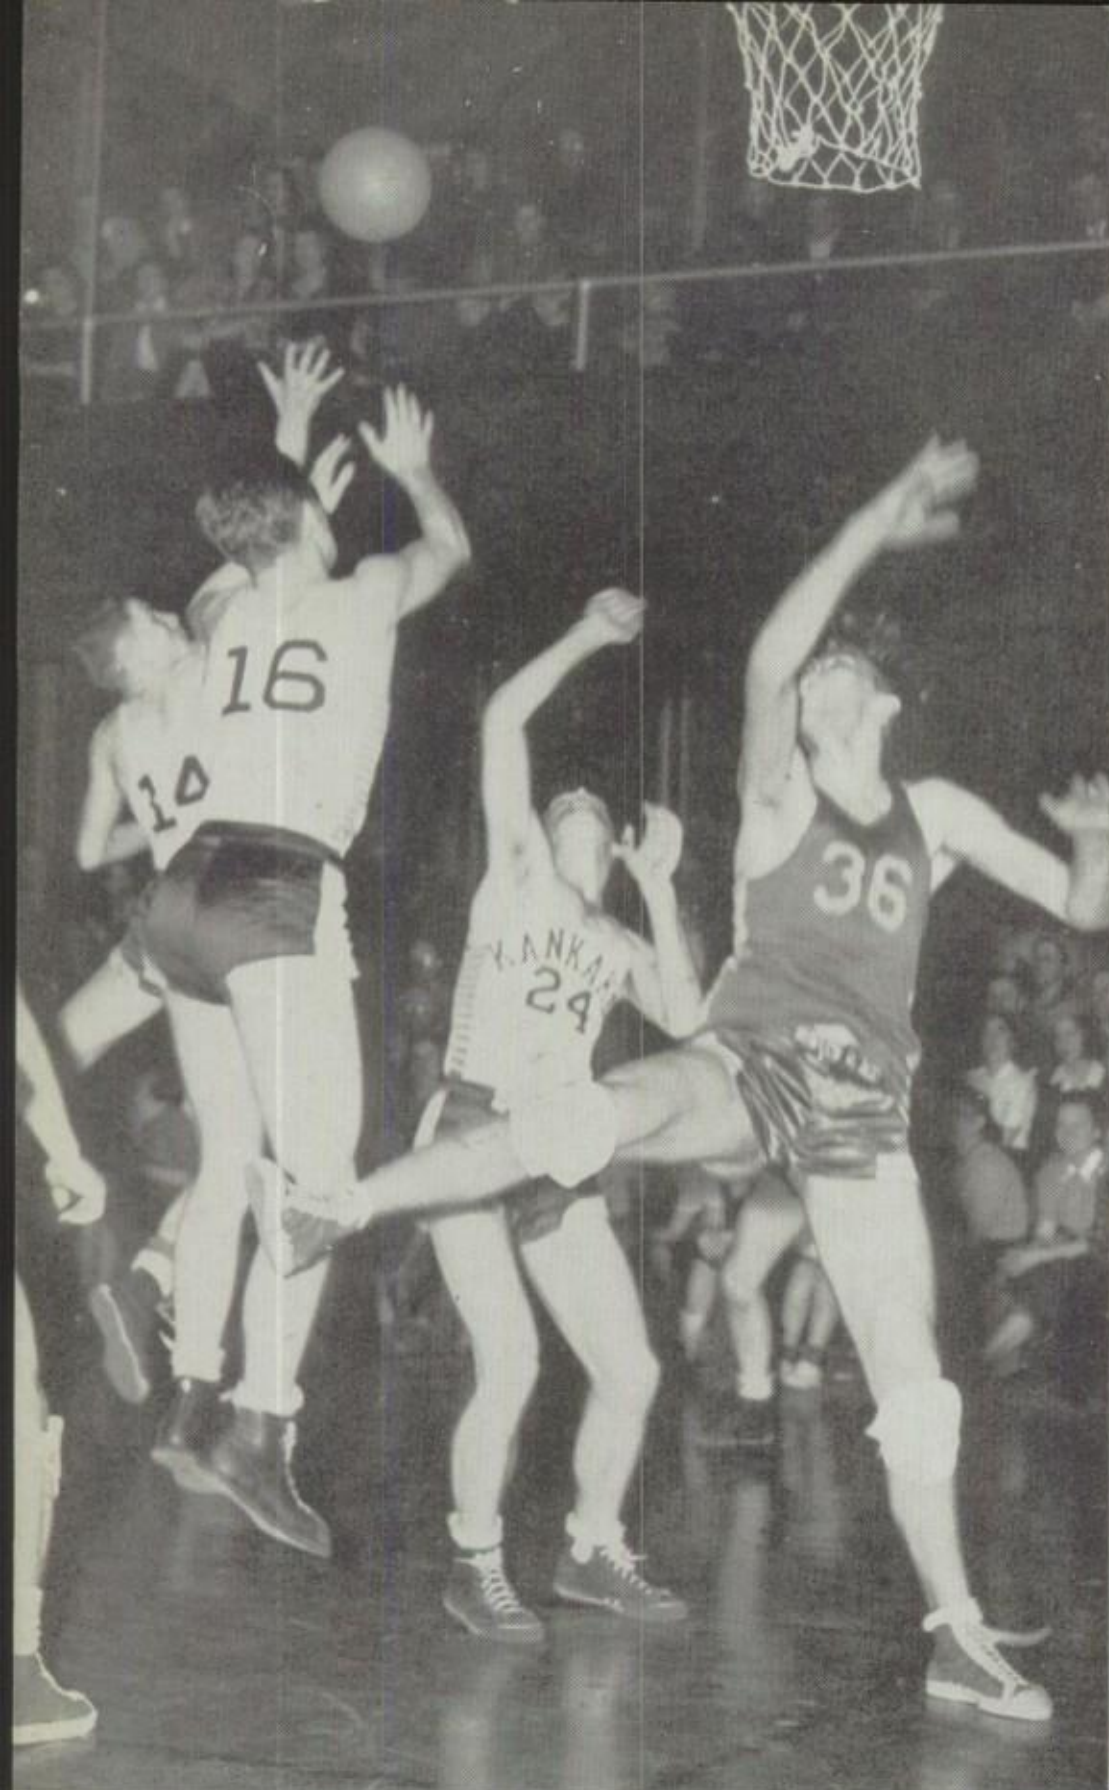

The eighteen who received letters were Captain Edwards, Gathing, Mortell, Ahrens, Lowey, Boudreau, Thompson, Bowsher, Burns, Volkmann, Fortier, Lile, Lemna, White, Radke, W. Brown, Schmidt, and Tiernan. A major manager's letter was awarded to Nesbitt.

The '41-'42 season was filled to the last game with stiff competition. The Kankakee heavy-weight basketball team didn't have as much winning power as teams of the past, but they had plenty of spirit and what it takes to make a winning team. The final outcome of the games was six wins and eighteen losses. The Kays advanced from the Regional to the Sectional Tournament.

The '41-'42 Freshman basketball team was one of the best in several years. They ended their season successfully by defeating Departmental, 45 to 11. Numerals were awarded to Ronald Behrends, Gail Abney, Donald Brown, Delbert Dufrain, James Moilan, Oliver Radke, Bill Ratcliff and Walter Volkmann.

Ray Anderson was awarded the "K" Cup last year, but this book goes to press without the 1942 "K" Cup winner known.

The Kankakee lightweights, under their new mentor, Coach Earl Jones, came through with an exceptionally good season, winning eighteen out of twenty-four games and taking second place in the South Suburban. This flashy little team, according to Mr. Jones, was the best he has ever coached.

Starting out by defeating Herscher, 27-7, they went on to take Danville, 29-13; Bloom, 25-23; Momence, 45-16; and Streator, 23-11. After losing to Calumet City, 31-28, they won from Bradley, 41-26; Blue Island, 38-33; Milford, 41-16; Streator, 36-34; and Lockport, 33-16. The lights fell to Thornton, 29-26; but were victorious over Argo, 31-24; St. Pats, 39-13; Bloom, 35-31; and St. Anne, 37-19.

LIGHTWEIGHTS

Although they lost to Calumet City, 33-20; Danville, 39-31; Bradley, 33-26; and Blue Island, 34-33, they finished with wins over Lockport, 38-30; Thornton, 31-28; Argo, 35-28; and St. Pats, 31-10.

Letters were given to these boys: Ronald Rieken, captain and high point man; Mickey Lile, forward and a fine shot; Dick Tyson, center of considerable ability; Howie Boudreau, winner of the free throw medal; Ed Edwards, excellent guard; Ross Nielsen, all-around player; Gene Carrigan, hard-running forward the first semester; Jack Swaim, Bob Lemna, Kenny Grubb, and Bob Pearson, dependable reserves; and Lloyd Nelson, manager.

speed and co-ordination in track;

Out there on the cinder path the boys were set on putting Kankakee in the victory column. Among the returning lettermen were Carpenter, half miler; Dandelles and Piersol, hurdlers; and Leavitt, discuss and shot put hurler. Keenly felt, however, was the loss of Lang, last year's broad jumper, who had qualified for the state finals.

In the various meets, Dusenbury ran the dashes, Lamere and McBroom took the 440 yard, and Carpenter and Reno covered the 880. Wilson and Ranz ran the mile.

In field events were Henderson and Swaim in the high jump, Nielsen in the pole vault, and Overacker and Szozda in the broad jump.

The Kays began by defeating Milford, 64-49, on the local oval. The following week the Dykstramen ran up 65 $\frac{1}{4}$ points to Momence's 55 and Herscher's 30 $\frac{3}{4}$.

Next Kankakee, with 26 points, met defeat against Bloom and Calumet City, who gathered 80 points and 35 points, respectively. In a later dual meet between Kankakee and Calumet the Kays came out on top, winning 61-52.

The Kays went on to compete in the District meet and place fourth. After two non-competitive weeks they met South Suburban League rival teams here. Carpenter and Dandelles competed in the state finals.

The juniors, competing in three meets, were highly successful. In the triangular against Calumet City and Bloom, they took firsts in all events but one, taking a total of 73 points to Bloom's 34 and Calumet's 12. The boys were sparked by Tyson, Boudreau, Burns, and Fortier. Against Calumet City they won, 79-16. Their season closed with the South Suburban meet.

enthusiasm for sportsmanship;

Nearly every Thursday night prior to 7:30, the cafeteria was filled with talk of football, track, the Streator basketball team, and a hundred other sport topics. When President Bill Leavitt called the meeting to order, the "K" Club really got down to business.

Among the year's achievements were the Faculty-Businessmen's basketball game, a dance following a football game, the selling of season tickets, a pep parade, and a banquet for the athletes of Kankakee High. Some 150 persons, including 54 football and basketball players, were present at the banquet to eat the man-sized meal, listen to Ray Elliot, U. of I. foot-ball coach, and dance in the gym afterwards.

Most of the loud, rip-roaring cheers at the football and basketball games came from the very center of the bleachers; that spot was usually the location of the Pep Club members, who turned out en masse for the games.

They did not, however, limit their activities to giving vocal support to the team. They gave several pep assemblies, sold Kankakee "booster pins," and cooperated with the "K" Club and the cheerleaders in staging a pep parade before the Harvey football game.

The club was led by President Robert Drolet, Vice-President Alice Oxford, and Secretary-Treasurer Patricia Hill. Miss Dorothy McGinnis and Miss Marion Kranz sponsored the group.

and wholesome, informal, happy relaxation.

Around our school one can never see loafing. True, people may be sitting in front of the school on the steps, conversing in small groups, playing in the gymnasium, swimming in the pool, or practicing archery on the school lawn, but this is not loafing.

It is merely a form of relaxation which, as defined in a dictionary, is recreation or diversion. So when we see some student friends or teachers diverting from their daily routines, we know they are refreshing themselves by a change of schedule.

Some students might be surprised to find that our teachers are no different from us. In fact we find much relaxation when we talk confidentially with them.

A form of recreation that many students and teachers find interesting is that of bowling at local alleys. Others take pleasure in skating, while some enjoy themselves by walking with other nature lovers.

Since we feel better and stronger after forgetting our troubles, we call all of these activities relaxation, and we know it isn't loafing.

appear when we review the past, take notice of the present and suggest the future

We have tried to present here, through different roads and routes, the things you will always want to remember about your high school days—your clubs, picnics, dances, friends, yes, even your classes.

In charge of the annual were Pat McDaniel and Helen LeBoeuf, co-editors; Jearld Rosenberger and Bill Blankenberg, photographers; Adrain Faford, business manager; Elinor Byers, advertising manager; Marion Boyd, circulation manager; and Richard Freeman, circulation assistant.

Circulation salesmen were Faford, Jaffe, Mc-

Daniel, Reniche, Bowman, Hill, Byers, Brenner, Radeke and Davison.

Advertising solicitors were Hill, Baker, McMullen, Dusenbury, Boyd and Raboin.

Members of the editorial staff were Kunde and Foster, faculty; Dusenbury, sports; Carruthers, art; McMullen and Raboin, seniors; Oberlin, classes; and Sheehan, copy.

The journalistic honor society, Quill and Scroll, conducted three initiations. Senior members were McDaniel, Foster, Kunde, Baker, Holcomb, Byers, LeBoeuf, and Oberlin; juniors, Hodgson and Schneider.

Entering Room 207 is like walking into a very busy and sometimes noisy business office. In front of the usual classroom rows of chairs are working tables for typists, copywriters and layout artists. Headquarters for the Kanka-Keynote, the annual and the forty-odd staff members are vested in this room.

The staff is kept on the go collecting and writing up the news and selling and collecting for advertisements. No sooner does one paper come out than the process starts over.

Each individual has his own work and goes about it without waiting for instructions. Cooperation and initiative are the essential requirements of a student.

Press cards denoting responsibility, cub pins, K Press, and Quill and Scroll are rewards for special achievements.

Journalism students started the waste paper campaign, pursued an energetic editorial policy, and mailed free subscriptions to K. H. S. alumni with the armed forces.

Editors for the first semester were Evelyn Kunde and Dorothy Foster; for the second semester, Patricia McMullen and Rex Dusenbury. Business managers were Flo Holcomb and Dorothy Oberlin.

of effort and good fortune along the road,

On every Monday afternoon, friendly girls made their way toward the cafeteria for Girl Reserve meeting.

These girls learned the first important values in doing good for others. By packing gifts for mountaineers, by caroling at the Old Folks' Home, by giving a party for underprivileged kiddies, they increased their own enjoyment.

Meetings were often devoted to the talents of the girls themselves—singing, reading, discussions and business. Once a month a picnic supper was held at the Y. W. C. A., and on Hallowe'en a masquerade party was enjoyed.

In April, ten girls attended a conference at Peoria. Here plans were made for improving meetings and increasing their war work.

Officers of the club were Frances Baker, president; Eleanor Bowman, vice-president; Constance Goudreau, secretary; and Helen LeBoeuf, treasurer.

One of the happiest roads is that well-beaten path to the auditorium. Through the year 1941-1942 we have trod this trail many times. We have been entertained by the Kilty Trumpeteers, an adventurer from Tibet, the Chicago Dramatic Society and a Persian teacher. These were some of our eight special assemblies which were paid for by the contributions of each student.

We were presented with a debate by state highway officials to determine whether pedestrians or motorists caused the most accidents. Pedestrians were blamed. Six students gave an open forum on war; the student body participated.

We were also entertained by student artists. Remember the assemblies before basketball games? Then there were the farewell assemblies for those gallant instructors who left civilian life and took their posts to defend the road of freedom.

providing practice in leadership,

Into the library every Monday morning went the student governing body of our school. The Student Council was composed of thirty-nine students and their sponsor, Miss Shuman. As each representative took his position at one of the long tables, the room took on an air of dignity.

The officers of the Council were Kenneth Anderson, president; Bob Carpenter, vice-president; and Frances Baker, secretary.

One of the Council's achievements this year was its successful Junior Red Cross drive, which netted forty dollars. The defense committee also aided the war effort by financing the purchase of a jeep through the sale of war stamps and waste paper.

The annual all-school party, sponsored by the organization, was enjoyed by the three hundred present in hill-billy costumes. Senior Day was another successful project. The state Council convention was attended by eight K. H. S. students.

learning the methods of government,

Hi-Y and Tri-K clubs met weekly at the Y. M. C. A. under the sponsorship of Mr. Keith Smith and Mr. Earl Jones; Mr. Donald Canham sponsored the underclassmen. Activities consisted of dances, bean suppers and the annual "Boys' Day." Mr. Vernon Rossman, new "Y" director, has helped the boys plan the dances held in the "Y" building. Leading the Hi-Y were Piersol, president; LaRocque, vice-president, and Faford, secretary-treasurer.

Officers for the Tri-K during the first semester were Mortell, president; Strahl, vice-president; Streeter, secretary-treasurer; Edwards, sergeant-at-arms and LaPorte, parliamentarian; second semester, Morris, president; Lile, vice-president; Moilan, secretary-treasurer; Edgeworth, sergeant-at-arms and Tiernan, parliamentarian.

acting together in club and class,

In May the Drama Club presented a successful assembly which gave the school an idea of what the club had accomplished in their meetings throughout the year.

These meetings included the reading of several plays, a demonstration on makeup, and a Christmas program.

The Drama Club had an enrollment of thirty-five students, led by Carol Jacquet, president; Mona Ray Mann, vice-president; Mary Ziener, treasurer; and Mary Joan Stentz, secretary. Miss Pauline Tull was club sponsor.

The leading roles for the junior play, "Young April," were taken by Dorothy Andrew and Thomas Hemstreet. In other major parts were Betty Baird, Clifford Raguse, Ronald Rieken and George Morrow. The cast also included Marcia Holt, June Hodgson, Eleanor Bowman, Lois Ann Strain, Margaret Jones, Norma Jean Davis, Arline Eatinger, Dorothy Hefter, James Wildman, Robert Wolf and Donald Ray.

The play, which dealt with a typical American family, was directed by Miss Tull. Doris Neumann was prompter.

After five weeks of practice under Mr. Frank Weller's direction and the prompting of Nancy Edgeworth and Dorothy Oberlin, twelve seniors presented the annual senior play on April 29. A follow-up of the all school party, the play, "Gabriel, Blow Your Horn," took place deep in the heart of South Carolina's hills.

Romantic interest was provided by Robert Drolet and Carol Jacquet as Herbert Brown, Jr., and Janet Smith, respectively. Since the love affair lacked the approval of Janet's Aunt Thelma (Margaret Coghlan) and Herbert Brown,

Gabriel (Bob Bonser) and Zerusia (Roberta Yocom) and their barefoot daughter, Daisy Mae (Bonnie Rogers), furnished the hill-billy touch.

Complications set in when Harold Dillon (Joe Knecht) also proposed to Janet. Janet's other friends at her aunt's cabin were portrayed by Mildred Johnson, Betty Siefert, Don Huckins, and Kenneth Abbott.

We think it's the hour of charm when we are presented with a musical program by the mixed chorus and the girls' and boys' glee clubs. These songsters fill their classroom with melodious sounds when they meet twice weekly.

The members of the choruses are accompanied by Eleanor Soltwisch, Louise Bancroft, and Ydeen Francis. Their instructor is Miss Mildred Fager.

The mixed chorusters not only have sung before their classmates but also have entertained the townspeople with programs at Evangelical Church, Open House, commencement, and at the spring concert, when they sang with the band.

The girls' group presented a Christmas vesper service, in addition to appearing in assemblies with the boys' glee club.

and march to victory for the country we love.

On the stage, on the march, at the basketball game, the band still plays on, creating pep and enthusiasm. Its regular practices are held on the auditorium stage, but it steps out to play for such events as the dedication of the Elwood Ordnance Plant and the South Suburban Band Festival. The band also presents annual winter and spring concerts. Mr. George E. Piersol is the director.

New additions to the band this year are the flag twirlers, baton twirlers and the solovox, which, by buttons, imitates a dozen instruments.

The band, by voluntary participation of its eighty members, helps to build a school spirit. And with the band setting the pace, the school marches down the road of America.

The Psychology of a Symbol

WHEN a workman in a European nation inscribed the letter V on a wall, as an abbreviation for the word victory, little did he know that it would become a symbol that would spread over the entire world. The psychology of the letter as a symbol of victory is growing stronger—but advertisers have used it as an "attention getter" until the appearance of the letter V has become common-place in advertisements and it is losing its power to attract. . . . Now, we are getting to the point! Do your letter-heads, business cards and folders appear common-place because the type style is used too frequently and the typographical arrangement is not of modern design?
